REPORT DETAIL

This report presents to Council the final draft of “Empowering our elders: A strategy for living and ageing well in Port Lincoln” (EOe Strategy), following the public consultation process that was carried out with respect to the Draft Strategy.

BACKGROUND

The City of Port Lincoln has recognised the importance of planning for an ageing population and has undertaken a project called Empowering Our elders Empowers Our Community (EOe), over the period 1 June 2023 to 31 May 2024. This project was supported by an Age Friendly SA Grant of $40,000 from the Office for Ageing Well.

Outcomes of the project include a comprehensive Learnings Report and a succinct, accessible strategy including a five-year action plan to begin defining and mapping Council’s role in empowering its residents to live and age well within Council’s scope and resourcing capacity.

Other outcomes of the project will include:

- four micro documentaries to promote the strategy, one of which has already been released, with three to come; and
- an article in the Office for Ageing Well’s online Seniors Magazine WeekendPlus on 31 May 2024.

Strategy development

Broadly, the purpose of the EOe Strategy is to provide a framework to map Council’s role in empowering residents to age well and guide decision-making around issues and areas relevant to ageing well, while balancing the needs and expectations of our community within Council’s resourcing capacity.

Council engaged Healthy Environs to assist Council in preparing the EOe Strategy. To ensure development of a considered and comprehensive strategy, the following was undertaken and facilitated by Healthy Environs:

- Review of relevant strategies, reports and documents relevant to ageing well
- Review of demographic and population data for the City of Port Lincoln
- Analysis of trends relevant to ageing well
- Audit of Council-owned facilities and assets

- Early targeted consultation with local community members and stakeholders in relevant fields such as health and aged care, housing and community services.

Structure and format of the EOe Strategy

The draft document comprises the following:

- Community snapshot detailing key population and demographic data relevant to ageing well
- A summary of the review in detail, what was undertaken and what was heard
- A summary of trends, challenges, strengths and opportunities for Port Lincoln relevant to living and ageing well
- A summary of what Council already undertakes in supporting our community to live and age well
- An action plan of what Council will do over the next 5 years to support ageing well.

Community consultation

In addition to the early targeted consultation process, community consultation was undertaken via the City of Port Lincoln's YourSAY online platform from 20 March 2024 to 11 April 2024, and was advertised on radio, social media, website, public notices and newspaper advertising. There was also a link via the MyLocalServices App directing applicants to the YourSay Project website.

During this time, six submissions were received through the YourSAY portal, in writing or via email to yoursay@plcc.sa.gov.au. Three further submissions, received within 4 days of the advertised consultation closing, have also been included in this report.

The submissions have been provided in full, in the attached submissions report (de-identified).

Upon review of the submissions, it has been assessed that most of the feedback will be addressed through the implementation of actions within the Draft Strategy, and one will be addressed by one strategy action being expanded slightly, as per the table below.

Proposed changes to the Draft EOe Strategy due to the consultation feedback:

1. The Action table now includes numbering for ease of reference.
2. Expand action 3.1 to include external promotions and utilising community networks to promote information to elder residents.

Feedback Received Summarised	Corresponding Action
Public transport should be adequate and free for seniors, in line with metropolitan areas	Council's role limited to advocacy. Action 1.6 Advocate to the State Government for continuous improvement of accessible and connected public transport services
Port Lincoln's footpaths should be safe and adequate for pedestrians and personal mobility vehicle users – eg. adequate widths; stop cars parking on footpaths.	To be addressed in Council's Footpath Strategy. (Direct feedback received during consultation will be provided to Council's Civil Assets and Operations Team.)
There are not enough disabled car parking spaces, those in place not adequate or accessible, eg. not wide enough.	To be addressed in future reviews of Council's Disability Access and Inclusion Plan, and other strategic work on carparking.
Document accessibility of the strategy could have been improved by further simplification of language.	This feedback will be considered as Council continues to improve accessibility of its public documents as identified in the Strategy's:

	‘What are we Doing?’ section under Navigating Change: Maintain Council’s websites, digital and other communications with regular consideration of current and relevant accessibility and inclusion guidelines.
Residential aged care is expensive for pensioners	Council’s role limited to advocacy. Action 2.4 Continue to build and maintain relationships with aged care and health stakeholders to understand current trends and gaps and advocate for continued investment and expansion of services including regional offerings and addressing staffing challenges.
Port Lincoln Leisure Centre exercise class capacity needs to be increased for older people to be able to book easily and attend.	Action 1.5 Initiate communication with relevant stakeholders in aged care and health, sport and recreation and community services, to discuss challenges, barriers and successes in use of Council owned facilities on an annual basis. (Direct feedback to be provided to YMCA)
Tackling ageism is an appropriate pursuit for Council - it could encourage businesses to be age friendly and promote respect for older people, and increase recognition of seniors’ value and input to the community.	Addressed via: Action 3.4 Collaborate with the Office for Ageing Well on upcoming programs, new initiatives, and cross promotion of information to support the Port Lincoln community.
Council could provide support and information for people to organise their Advanced Care Directives.	Addressed via: Action 3.7 Facilitate planning for a community-driven expo style event to promote programs and services that support living and ageing well And under the Strategy’s ‘What are we Doing?’ section under Navigating Change: Provide a free, welcoming space at Port Lincoln Library for ongoing community activities (eg. hobby groups practising tai chi, weaving, card playing, yarn spinning) and activations by external stakeholders which benefit community such as Dementia Australia’s Dementia Friends Cuppa and Catch Up, and Palliative Care Research Collaboration’s Advanced Care Directives workshops.
Better supporting elders to access information in a digital world could include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • more public signage/advertising of events/information; • more use of radio advertising; • more use of existing aged care and community newsletters, and networks of leaders of groups with seniors as members; • run a seniors’ advisory group 	Addressed under the Strategy’s ‘What are we doing?’ Section under Meaningful connections: Advocate for cross promotion of public health and wellbeing messaging, initiatives and events, for example through Council’s website, digital communications and e-newsletters, and provide opportunity for community events and initiatives to be promoted eg. banners on the foreshore signage bollards.

	Expand Action 3.1 – Promote internal and external programs, events and initiatives which support residents aged 50 and over, via Council’s website and e-newsletters, and sharing to established community networks and groups for further distribution. Note: Council has radio advertising packages (corporate, VIC, Library and NAC) with the local radio station for promotion of Council projects, programs and initiatives.
--	---

Minor formatting corrections have also been made to the final draft, and a statistic on page 9 has been corrected:

27% of Home and Community Care (services for people ageing in place) recipients are non-English speaking has been clarified, to read:

27% of the Southern Eyre Peninsula region’s non-English speaking Home and Community Care recipients (389) live in Port Lincoln.

Additionally, the Strategy’s Introduction now includes information on Port Lincoln being a regional service centre with a broader regional catchment of almost 25,000 people.

The feedback received from a local Aboriginal next generation Elder regarding consultation and engagement with our community’s youth is acknowledged and will be considered in the development of Council’s Youth Action Plan, earmarked for development in the 2024/25 financial year.

The revised Empowering our elders: A strategy for living and ageing well in Port Lincoln 2025-2029 incorporating the recommended changes above has been provided as an attachment to this report with the recommendation that Council adopt the Strategy as presented.

Project Name: Empowering our elders: A Strategy For Living and Ageing Well in Port Lincoln

Reporting Period: 21 April 2021 - 11 April 2024

Project Overview

The City of Port Lincoln has received community feedback on the draft Empowering our elders: A Strategy for Living and Ageing Well in Port Lincoln.

Responding to an ageing population and new challenges for people as they grow older, the strategy, "Empowering our elders: A Strategy for Living and Ageing Well in Port Lincoln", maps Council's role in empowering residents to live and age well.

The strategy was also informed by a robust, initial consultation with representatives of local community and organisations, and was also made available for wider public comment.

Office for Ageing Well, SA Health funded the Empowering our elders project 2023/24 through the Age Friendly SA Grant program, which included establishment of this strategy.

All submissions received during the public consultation period, including 3 late submissions, have been considered in preparation of the Final Draft Strategy, and key points summarised in a report presented to Elected Members at the Ordinary Council Meeting held on Monday, 20 May 2024.

I'm happy to come and start a lot of consultation on the youth in our town. I have worked with WCYCS, RSL army camp. Education department for 10+ years. I need to see change in Port Lincoln for the youth and I'm happy to work with you on consultation and community engagement with the services and programs that exist. Fantastic to see. The staff need to be applauded. I think this is due significantly to Louise and team being such welcoming, non-judgmental, inclusive individuals and as a team this is highly evident daily.
9	Some seniors that I spoke with about commenting on the Draft Strategy said that it was not an easy document to read and follow. I think the trends and challenges are summarised well. Understand the constraints for Council in provider vs advocate. Given the current low uptake of seniors accessing and/or using the internet to access information, other more traditional ways to communicate need to continue to be used and explored e.g. distributing information to leaders of groups who have seniors as members, using existing aged care services and community newsletters, radio is still popular with seniors. Agree that it is important for council to maintain and build meaningful connection/relationships with senior's groups, aged care services and organisations to increase understanding of ongoing and new issues/concerns. Maybe a seniors' advisory group with quarterly meetings to see how things are going. Would be good to include a focus/advocacy role for council to encourage more businesses to be age friendly and to promote more respect for older people from businesses and the community generally. More recognition of the valuable input seniors continue to make to our community and have made during their years living in Port Lincoln as a way of addressing ageism. Also wonder if council role in providing support and information about Advanced Care Directives. I'm aware that Victor Harbour and Onkaparinga City have worked with a local group of services and consumers and the Office of the Public Advocate and Legal Services Commission to enable people in the community to get information and support to	15 April 2024 (late submission)

DRAFT STRATEGY

Empowering our elders

A strategy for living and ageing well in Port Lincoln

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples should be aware this publication contains images of deceased persons.

We acknowledge the Barngarla people, the Traditional Owners of the lands on which the City of Port Lincoln rests and their continuing connection to land, sea, culture and community. We pay our respects to Elders past, present and emerging, and we extend that respect to all other Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in our community.

Mayor's message

None of us think of ourselves as ageing, yet we all are. Life is a process, a journey, and a privilege.

We are living longer than previous generations. This means that beyond retirement, there can be a whole lot of living yet to be done, and people can continue to live and to age well, and in the ways that suit them best.

As a country our population is ageing, and as a Council we realise the importance of supporting our residents to live well throughout the ages and stages of life.

This strategy is the first of its kind for the City of Port Lincoln, placing importance on supporting Port Lincoln residents and making first steps to empower them to live and age well here.

Along with our community, we also want to celebrate our residents, their heritage, contributions, personalities and stories. One of our local Barngarla Elders, Lavinia Richards, says “elders are a library” of stories, history and culture that should be enjoyed and learned from.

Our hope for empowering our elders, is that they are valued by other generations, who are able to learn from and share with them – as in many traditional cultures, this strengthens the community as a whole.

Introduction

Why is this strategy needed?

The Australian Government's Intergenerational Report 2023¹ considered increased ageing and rising demand for care and support services as two of five major forces to shape Australia and its economy over the next 40 years to 2063. The report predicted the number of people aged 65 and over would more than double, and the number aged 85+ would more than triple in that time.

Port Lincoln is the regional service centre for greater Eyre Peninsula, providing services including retail, healthcare and education beyond the City's 14,404 residents to the broader regional catchment of almost 25,000 people.

The City of Port Lincoln recognises the importance of planning for an ageing population. This strategy begins mapping Council's role in empowering its residents to live and age well within Council's scope and resourcing capacity.

Office for Ageing Well, SA Health funded the Empowering Our elders project 2023/24 through the Age Friendly SA Grant program, including establishment of this strategy.

elder noun (PERSON) an older person, especially one who deserves respect
[Cambridge Dictionary]

Why “empowering our elders”?

In many cultures, including First Nations cultures, elders are revered as vital.

Their life experience and wisdom support the scaffolding for a healthy, vibrant community.

Who are our elders?²

People aged over 50 make up more than a third of our City's diverse population³ and everyone has a unique life story. It is therefore vital to acknowledge these individual characteristics when we engage with each other.

There is no universally agreed definition of older people, however, generally this group is defined as 50 years or older.

Demographers tend to split this cohort into three categories, described below. However, where someone may fit in terms of age does not necessarily reflect typical characteristics of a group, and there is always diversity in background, interests, and experiences.

50-70

Those aged 50-70: may be preparing for their third age, sharing the experience of their working lives, still working, retraining, semi-retiring and retiring, caring, and often the 'sandwich generation', looking after parents and grandchildren. This group may be more familiar with social media and other technologies.

70-85

Those 70-85: may be facing new independence or mobility and health challenges, caring for long-term partners and friends, starting to experience new opportunities in travel or economic disadvantage.

85+

Those over 85: may be beginning a golden era of wisdom and gratitude, while also facing deeper challenges such as meaning, health, and economic disadvantage.

The City of Port Lincoln seeks to advocate for and empower elders, throughout these ages and stages, to:

- handle their affairs with dignity and independence, navigate their community and environment with comfort, safety, and confidence
- feel valued in engagement with other generations, and
- be heard, understood, and appreciated.

This strategy provides a blueprint for Council's role in supporting elders to live their best lives in Port Lincoln, including specific actions to be taken over the next 5 years.

Further background and detail on how this strategy was informed can be read in the Empowering our elders Key Learnings Report, available on Council's website.

Scope

This strategy identifies and maps Council's role in empowering residents to live and age well in Port Lincoln and assists delivery of Council's Strategic Directions Plan – Goal 2: Liveable and Active Communities – we will be a healthy, safe, inclusive, and empowered community.

It is a framework to guide decision-making and action relative to living and ageing well, balancing the needs and expectations of our community within Council resourcing.

The role of Council in delivery of the Empowering our elders strategy includes:

- strategic alignment with other actions and priorities within Council's strategic management framework;
- collaboration with key stakeholders ensuring that priorities are aligned towards similar goals for the benefit of the community;
- advocacy to other organisations and government agencies for funding and other relevant support for program/service delivery and action; and
- working collaboratively with relevant stakeholders to cross promote health and wellbeing messaging, initiatives, and events to assist capacity of community to drive health and wellbeing outcomes.

Assets managed by Council to provide services to the community include:

- Buildings and other community assets e.g., sport and recreation facilities, administration offices, community facilities such as the Port Lincoln Leisure Centre, Nautilus Arts Centre and ArtEyrea workshop, amenities, and more;
- Parks and reserves and open spaces;
- Recycled water scheme and stormwater network; and
- Roads (sealed and unsealed), kerbing, bridges, and footpaths.

Council also provides a range of programs and services, for example library programs such as digital literacy sessions, healthy brain hub and the home delivery program, as well as volunteering programs, which support residents to live and age well. These programs and services are summarised in more detail in the table What We Are Doing on page 13.

Direct service provision, such as the delivery of specific health and aged care services and programs, are beyond the scope of this strategy and Council's core business. It is noted that local government is not the answer to "all things" and it may also not be possible to meet all community expectations within current financial and staffing resources. However local government can (and should) play a role in advocating and supporting the community facilitate positive outcomes relative to ageing and living well.

Strategic priorities

This strategy has been aligned to South Australia's Plan for Ageing Well 2020-2025 and its key themes:

Strategic priority 1 – Home and community

Homes and communities enable flexibility and choice, and support us to live how we choose, no matter our age, needs, wants, and desires.

Strategic priority 2 – Meaningful connections

A future where everyone has the opportunity, support, and encouragement to maintain and develop meaningful connections.

Strategic priority 3 – Navigating change

A future where we all have the capabilities and supports for remaining active participants throughout all life's transitions.

Our plan – What we did, what we heard

Strategic review and alignment with relevant Council and external plans and strategies

Review of demographic and population data

Analysis of trends relevant to living and ageing well

Stakeholder and community consultation

Development of a comprehensive Key Learnings Report and the Empowering our elders strategy

Shaping this strategy

1. Strategic alignment with Council plans and strategies

Federal, state, and local government levels all have strategic planning documents and strategies which relate to provision and management of community infrastructure and services, and support of residents to live and age well.

This strategy aligns to and is underpinned by South Australia's Plan for Ageing Well 2020-2025.

In addition, the following strategies were considered as part of development of this strategy.

State

- South Australian Plan for Ageing Well 2020-2025
- Age Friendly SA Strategy
- Ageing Well Measuring Success Framework 2020-2025

Local

To identify and assess services already delivered by Council that support our community to live and age well, a strategic review and alignment with the following Council plans and strategies was undertaken:

- Strategic Directions Plan 2021-2030
- Disability Access and Inclusion Plan 2021-2025
- Reconciliation Action Plan July 2021 – December 2022
- Sport and Recreation Strategy 2023 – 2027
- Open Space Strategy 2021 – 2026
- Southern Eyre Peninsula Regional Public Health Plan 2023 – 2028

The Empowering our elders strategy identifies and provides context and scope to Council's roles in empowering living and ageing well as detailed on the following pages.

2. Review of demographic and population data

A review of demographic and population data reveals Port Lincoln, like South Australia and indeed the nation, has an ageing population. Its ageing population is comparable to the Eyre Peninsula region but older than other metropolitan councils and is increasing over time.

The City is culturally diverse, with a much higher percentage of First Nations residents than the State average, and a higher proportion of people living alone.

 Our people	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 41% of people in Port Lincoln were 50+ in 2021, compared with 39% in 2016, 35% in 2011 • Life expectancy is 83 • Median age is 41, and 22 for First Nations residents
 Living situation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 32% occupied dwellings made up of single person households • Average household size is 2.3 people • 32% of Commonwealth Home Support Programme (independent living, low level support) clients in Port Lincoln live alone • Port Lincoln housing: 3% 1 bedroom, 17% 2 bedrooms, 78% 3+ bedrooms • Port Lincoln drivers: 7% no vehicle, 37% 1 vehicle, 54% 2+ vehicles • 10% of households are social housing
 Participation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 11% Port Lincoln residents provide unpaid help to others • 19% volunteer • 3% residents have served in Australian defence force services • 5% are unemployed • 76% have access to internet

3. Analysis of trends relevant to living well

The landscape for ageing well in Australia has been changing significantly in recent decades, with people increasingly choosing to live longer in their own homes and access in-home care and services when they need it, rather than entering residential aged care.

Rapid advancement of technology means information sharing and accessing services is increasingly online.

Broader trends such as these, and more specific developments, have been analysed alongside local feedback to paint an accurate picture of living and ageing well in Port Lincoln. A summary of this analysis can be found on page 11.

4. Stakeholder and community consultation

The engagement phase was aligned with the IAP2 Spectrum of Public Participation and was inclusive and interactive, using a strengths-based approach (community members and stakeholders are the experts, and their thoughts and ideas are the reason we come together). In developing the draft strategy, 11 consultation meetings with 50 participants were held and, discussion was structured around the 3 strategic priorities from South Australia's Plan for Ageing Well. Participants were asked about what 'empowering our elders' meant to them, and their visions for living and ageing well in Port Lincoln.

Key messages emerging from this initial consultation included:

- challenges are experienced relative to public transport accessibility and coverage;
- residents aged 50 and over are significantly affected by housing shortages and related issues;
- elders are experiencing challenges staying connected and informed because of digital literacy issues; and
- sharing and receiving information locally is increasingly difficult with the decline of traditional media and the rise of countless online platforms.

5. Development of Key Learnings Report and Empowering our elders strategy

Bringing together learnings from previous steps, a Key Learnings Report was compiled, then distilled into the Empowering our elders strategy, including actions Council already takes and will endeavour to undertake, to empower our elders to live and age well – page 13 and 15. Throughout research and consultation, the following key trends, challenges, strengths, and opportunities emerged:

Home and community

Trends:

- National housing shortages and affordability challenges
- An ageing population and more people ageing in place and navigating community independently
- Accessing in-home aged care services and government support is increasingly online
- Programs supporting people to live longer at home are anecdotally reported to be under-subscribed locally

Challenges:

- Ensuring homes are safe and fit for the purpose of ageing in place
- Ageing in place can be impacted by trends like housing shortages and can also impact a community's housing stocks
- Securing places in residential aged care and public housing can be difficult
- Poor digital literacy impacts on ability to access support and services
- Local workforce development and housing is needed to support service sustainability

Strengths:

- Port Lincoln has good service volume and is a regional health and aged care hub
- Port Lincoln has great variety and volume of facilities, activities, hobbies and lifestyle options available for individuals

Opportunities:

- Through local workforce development, there is increased opportunity for First Nations people to gain employment in the sector
- The City's aged care sector (and related health industries) presents significant ongoing economic development opportunity

Meaningful connections

Trends:

- Social engagement and good activity levels are linked to living a longer, healthier life
- Government and community organisations are leading broad initiatives to reduce loneliness
- Information sharing and many services are now predominantly online
- Public transport in regional centres such as Port Lincoln is limited in terms of service area and timeframes

Challenges:

- Accessing information is harder for those with digital literacy challenges. Digital poverty is also a challenge experienced
- Limitations with the local public transport service can impact on participation and engagement
- Some elders are tech-savvy but the majority of people over 75 experience digital exclusion
- Accessibility of infrastructure for example, pavement safety, affects individuals' confidence and participation

Strengths:

- The community benefits from diverse organisations and support including leadership and volunteering programs, arts groups and some multicultural support

Opportunities:

- Expanded development and delivery of digital literacy programs and skill sharing across the community
- The community has shown enthusiasm to celebrate its diversity and increase engagement across different cultural groups and demographics, such as the First Nations community and other Culturally and Linguistically Diverse groups

Navigating change

Trends:

- People are working longer before retiring
- Many people like to volunteer or take up other hobbies after retiring
- Majority of Australians want to die at home supported by family and friends, yet this only occurs in 14% of cases

Challenges:

- Navigating change and systems such as the health system, driver licensing, banking, deaths and marriages, and financial planning, becomes harder as we age
- Significant transitions affect ability to live well, (retiring, losing partner, health, job or home)
- Increasing administrative requirements on volunteering is making it less attractive;
- Workforce shortages such as nurses affect individuals for example through limiting bed capacity at local facilities

Strengths:

- Council and wider community provide many services and supports
- Individuals support each other, friendships and other connections increase resilience

Opportunities:

- Raising awareness of My Aged Care and similar programs via advocacy
- Navigating change, connection and participation could be increased by addressing issues around digital literacy/ poverty
